How to Find the Mango Placement Test

Do you know some of the language you want to learn? Take the placement test. It finds the right chapter for you to start in, so you can skip what you know.

The test suits two groups: learners who are moving to Mango from another language program, and new learners who know some of the language. Follow these four steps to open it.

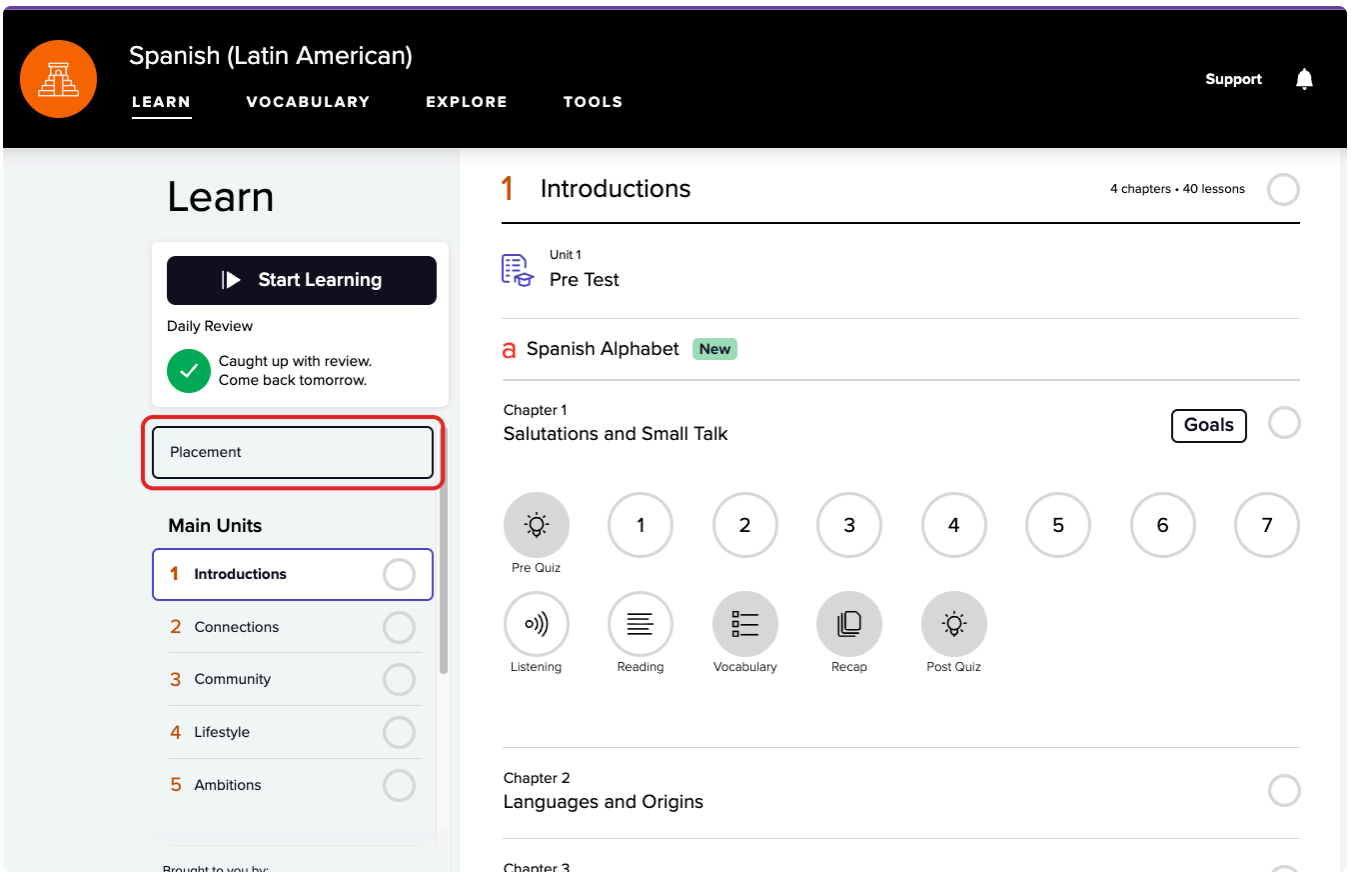

Step 1: Pick a language

On the Pick a Language page, select the language you want to learn. Use the search box or See All if you do not see it under Popular Languages. This guide uses Spanish (Latin American).

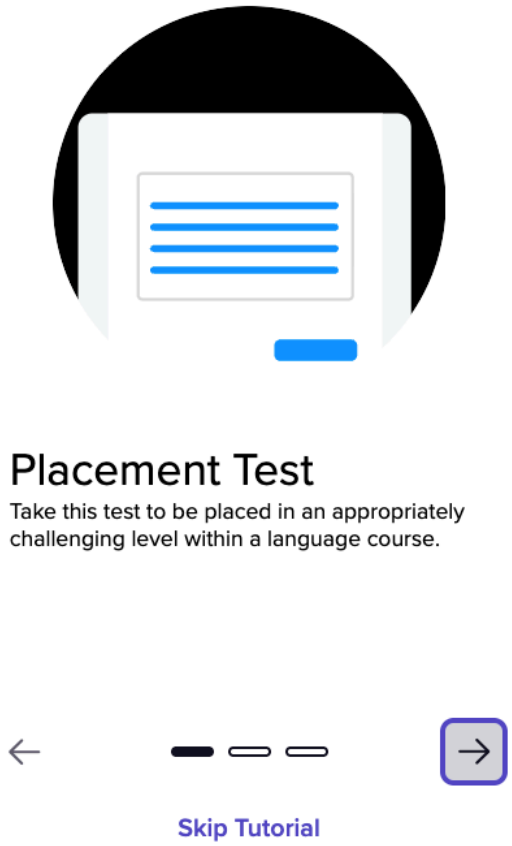

Step 2: Select Placement

Your course opens on the Learn page. Select Placement in the left panel, above Main Units.

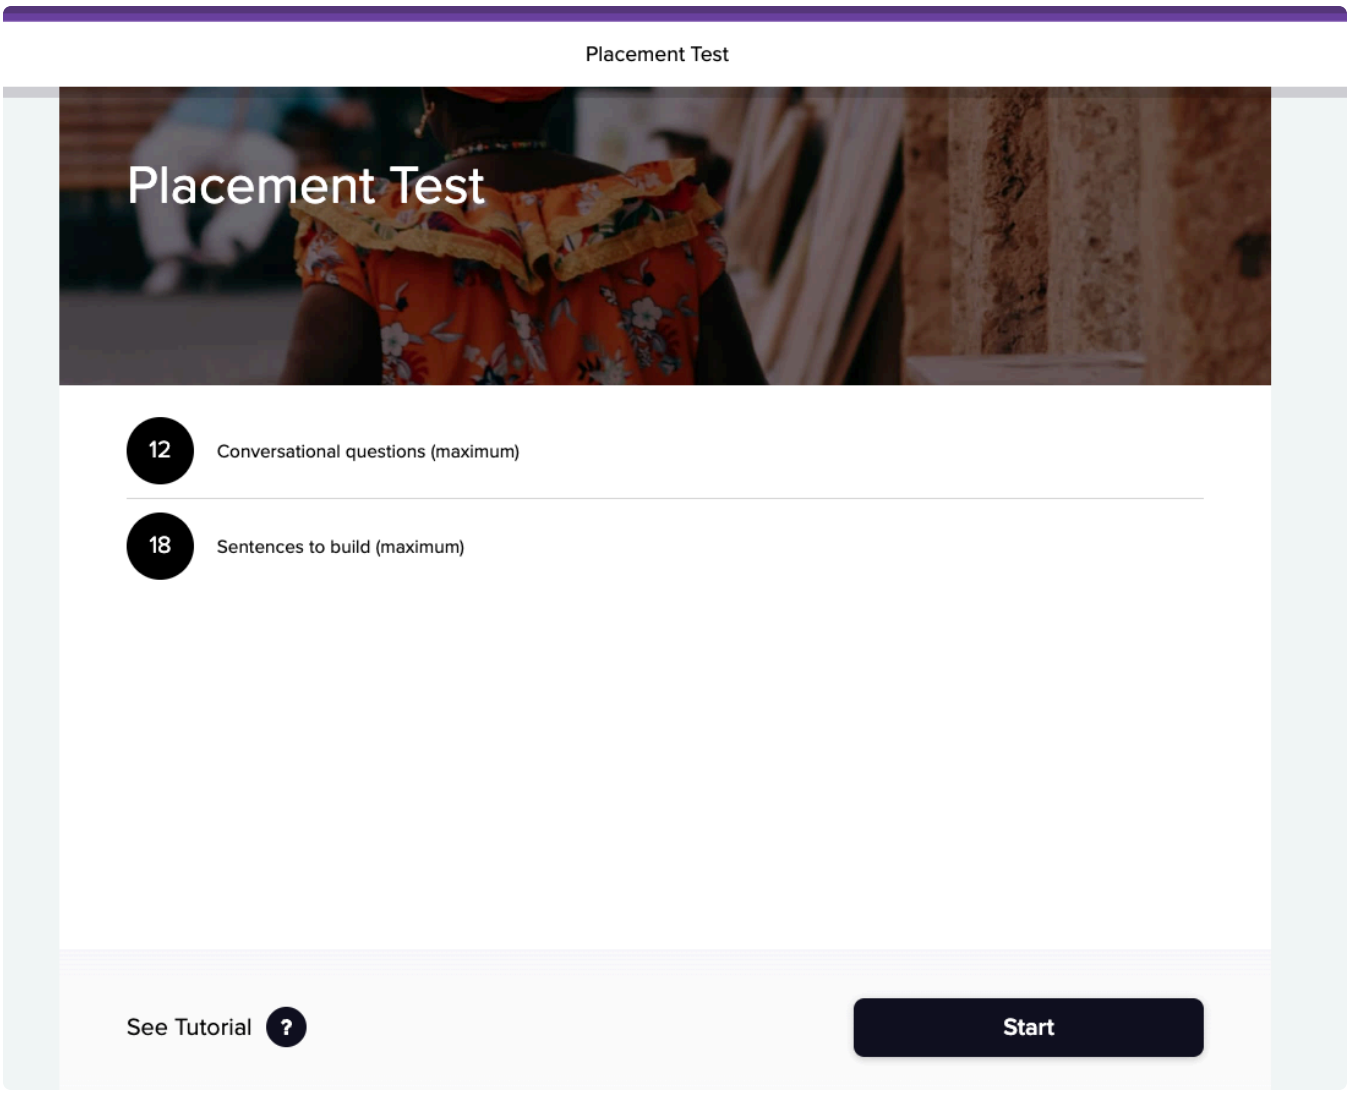

Step 3: Tutorial

A short tutorial explains the test. Select the arrow to move through its three screens, or select Skip Tutorial.

Step 4: Select Start

Select Start to begin the test. The number of conversational questions and sentences to build varies by language and by what is available. The screenshot shows the Spanish (Latin American) test.

How the placement test works

The test finds your level by cutting the course in half with each answer. Here is an example for a course with 40 chapters.

1. The test starts in the middle, with a question from Chapter 20.
2. If you get it right, the next question comes from Chapter 30. That is the middle of Chapters 20 to 40.
3. If you get it wrong, the next question comes from Chapter 10. That is the middle of Chapters 1 to 20.
4. The test keeps going to the middle of the chapters that remain until it finds your place.

Placement test or quiz?

The placement test places you in the course. The quizzes and tests grade you on what you have learned.

Test	What it does
Placement test	Finds the chapter where you should start. It takes less time than the course test.
Chapter quiz	Graded quiz on the content of one chapter.
Unit test	Graded quiz on the content of one unit.

Mango picks chapter quiz questions at random from a pool. Your quiz may differ from the quiz of the person next to you. The answer options on the same question may differ too.

Good to know

Mango offers the placement test on select courses. Your course may not show the Placement button.
